Here's Christmas.

Here's "Christmas" -- let us bold!y greet him, He will steal on, and slyly aprinkle The first gray hair and first faint wrinkle And yet methings it little matters What seel of ruin-moss he scatters, So that amid it we contrive To keep Truth's Heartsease still alive Within our breast.

Here's Christmas, and it seemeth well That Couscience to our deeds should tell The just result of all we're done, And trace the way our sands have run. Let us peruse the closely scaled, The volume ever unrevealed, And see if we have said or thought No evil thing that shall bave brought Bluts on our crest

The heart is but a led, er-sheet Where Right and Wrong in bal-And well it is that we should see Old Christmas has a trick, we find, Of bringing bills of every kind, So, ere we drain the festive cup, We'll look within, and h ckin up

The debts we awe.

Let us not idly shirk the task, But face ourselves, and boldly ask Our conduct whether it has trud The path of Wammon or of Goi? A more important "dir-book" lives Than that which worldly commerce gives; Some brighter figures must be found Than those which make the golden round Of Profit's dial.

Let us take heed that no arrears Are due to those whose scient tears Are calling on us night and day For debts which mercy ought to pay; Let us be sure that we have heard The claims of Mosery's lowly word, And that out lips have never driven

The helpless and the sprit-riven With harsh denial. Let us think how "account" anay stand When the "recording angel's" hand Adds up our column-turning then To the "great book" act kept by men. No yellow dust will serve to hide The errors made by selfish pride? e items, though on vellum page, Will never bear the searching gauge Of buly sight

So take good cantion how we let Delusion lead us into deb.; And let old Christmas Bud us willing To pay Humanity's last shilling. We'll pile the log and drain the cup, But not before we reckon up The · balance-sheet? that Councience draws
And God e'er keeps by His own laws Ot Wrong and Right.

The Philadelphia Daily News, a paper which has never acted with the Democracy, and which has been as bitter as any other in the State, is gradually coming to its senses, if we are to judge by the following just and well-timed sketch of the Lancaster member of Congress. We give the article entire as we find it in a late issue:

It is as much the duty of a candid jour-nalist to point out those defects of judg-ment, in a person occupying an influential position, which are like to bring trouble upon the country, as it is to perform the more agreeable task of commending the wise and patriotic acts of those who labor judiciously and corneatly to prevent disas-

His great experience and shrewdness in the management of party affairs give him great power, and all that he says and does has weight with a considerable portion of the people of the Northern States, consequently his power for good or for evil is great.

Mr. Stevens opposes the policy of the President, who aims to restore the authority of the Federal government in the recently revolted States, and the prosperity of the whole country, in the shortest timb practicularly those which concerned proposed laws designed to compel the people to iglaws designed, to compel the people to igmay be compelled to pay the enormous na-tional debt incurred in suppressing the rebellion evinces so little practical knowledge of the condition and productive resources of the South, and of the means by which property may be made to yield revenue, as

Stevens is a visionary theorist, whose judgment is distorted by the harsh feelings which he entertains toward the people of the States recently at war with our government; and, what is of much more consequence to every citizen of a loyal State, is that he is a revolution at. He has repeatedly declared that he does not respect the Con-

If his views he adopted and put into practice the American republic will no longer have an existence, although the name may be retained. Restoration Commensed!

By order of President Johnson, Secretary Seward makes the official announcethe restoration of the State of Alabama to the Union, relieving the Provisional Gov- Ternment. ermor, and recognizing the Governor elected by the people as the executive officer of the State. These acts look well on the part of the President, Whilet the Radicals id Congress are denouncing his policy, he is quietly putting that policy into execution! Let him adhere to this course, faithfully up! And thus sustained, he may laugh the Sumner and Stevens Radicals to scorn.

The Provisional Governor of Georgia hus also been relieved, to make room for the Governor elect. The work goes on !

Thad. Stevens.

The acknowledged position of this indiwidual as the leader of the Republican majority in the House of Representatives. reminds us of an incident in his early political history, which gives a complete clue to the character of the man. In 1838, at the capital of Pennsylvania, he whipped ure of attempting to set aside the elections Ly the people, and foist upon the Commonwealth a minority Legislature. There were ger to the peace and safety of the U. States. three honest members of the same party with Mr. Stevens who refused to carry out the trust which was these treasonable practices, namely, Messrs. Butler and Sturdevant, of Luzerne county, and Montelius, of Union county. The latter testified before the committee of investigation that he told Mr. Stevens his "conscience would not permit him to sanction these corrupt proceedings." "Conscience, indeed," said Mr. Stevens, "throw conscience to the devil, and stand by your party." When the Congressional authorities at Washington follow such a leader, we mily well exclaim, "God save the Commonwealth!"

Who are the Traitors?

President Johnson, in his message of the Bih inst., lays down the following principle: "The best security for the perpetual existence of the States is the supreme authority of the Constitution of the United States. The perpetuity of the Constitution brings with it the perpetuity of the States; their mptual relation makes us what we are, and in our political system their connexion is indissoluble. The whole cannot exist without the parts, nor the parts with out the whole. So long as the Constitution of the United States endures, the States will endure; the destruction of the one is the destruction of the other; the preservation of the one is the preservation of the other. The Union is "indissoluble." States cannot go out of their own accord; and there exists no authority to put them out or keep them out. Treason, therefore, consists in the endeavor to put or keep them out. as in the endeavor to take them out. This in the fair and legitimate meaning of the President. The Southern Secessionists, who undertook to take States out of the who undertook to take States out of the Union, are thus placed side by side with the Eastern with his usual ribality, the Washington would suppose there was but people push the good work, in this sentiment that "this is a white man's government," and boldly announcing that one togic for legislation in this country, the Washington would suppose there was but people push the good work, in this and every radical Abolitionists of the North, who are pletermined to keep them out, or destroy their identity by converting them into conguered territory. The statement is made by a correspondent of the New York Tones that Generai Grant, in his recent visit to Ruleigh, N. C. took occasion to remark that the existence of parties of different opinions is nocessary to a healthy condition of the country, and that he always avoided the 'extremes of Copperheadjam and Radicalism. What will the chaps who have been beljowing for the last five years that there should be but one party, say to this?
